

Abstract

Methods for detecting the inflammatory biomarker molecule CD163 in biological samples are provided. Also provided are methods for monitoring the course of an inflammatory process or condition in a patient and compositions and methods for preventing and treating inflammation and inflammatory processes.